

Lecturer Positions in Computer Science

The Department of Computer Science at the University of Georgia invites applications for two full-time, non-tenure track Lecturer positions starting August 2019. The responsibilities of each position include teaching foundational courses in the undergraduate major and periodically teaching a senior/beginning graduate level course in his/her specialty. Lecturer candidates should hold a Ph.D. degree in Computer Science or a closely related field. Scholarly credentials should reflect a strong commitment to teaching Computer Science courses at the undergraduate level. Scholarly credentials should reflect a strong commitment to teaching Computer Science courses at the undergraduate level.

The Computer Science Department is a growing and congenial department of 34 faculty within the Franklin College of Arts and Sciences. The department has nearly 1,114 undergraduate and over 195 graduate students and offers the B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. degrees.

Please see <http://www.cs.uga.edu> for more information about the department.

The University of Georgia (UGA), a land-grant and sea-grant university with statewide commitments and responsibilities is the state's oldest, most comprehensive, and most diversified institution of higher education (<http://www.uga.edu/>). UGA is currently ranked among the top 20 public universities in U.S. News & World Report. The University's main campus is located in Athens, approximately 65 miles northeast of Atlanta, with extended campuses in Atlanta, Griffin, Gwinnett, and Tifton. UGA was founded in 1785 by the Georgia General Assembly as the first state-chartered University in the country. UGA employs approximately 1,800 full-time instructional faculty and more than 7,600 full-time staff. The University's enrollment exceeds 36,000 students including over 27,500 undergraduates and over 8,500 graduate and professional students. Academic programs reside in 17 schools and colleges, as well as a medical partnership with Augusta University housed on the UGA Health Sciences Campus in Athens.

To apply, please go to <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/31940>. Please upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and short statements of teaching portfolio/philosophy. Please provide contact information (email) for three references.

Review of candidates will begin on November 13, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Due to an update of the UGAjobs website, applications cannot be uploaded from Nov. 14 – Dec. 15. Materials for informal consideration can be sent via email to klbuff@uga.edu during this time; however, for full consideration, materials and applicant certifications must be submitted to the UGAjobs website after the system is reopened on Dec.16.

The Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, its many units, and the University of Georgia are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students, and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive. Women, minorities, protected veterans and individuals with disability are encouraged to apply. The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation, or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.